

BRAIN HEALTH COMMUNITY

Connecting communities to research, information, and resources on brain health, caregiving, and aging!

- What is the Brain Health Community? It is a research registry created by nurses and social workers at the University of Wisconsin-Madison to support community members around the United States to participate in important brain health research by pairing them with research opportunities, information, resources and services
- Who can participate? Anyone over 40 years of age who is interested in brain health OR anyone over 18 years of age currently providing caregiving services to someone experiencing changes in memory

- What will I receive for participating? You will receive $10 when you join the Brain Health Community, which requires a 30-60 minute intake visit that can be completed by phone, and $5 every year after
- How can I learn more and/or join? Email us at brainhealth@nursing.wisc.edu or call \(608\) 800-2899! You can also contact the lead researcher, Andrea Gilmore-Bykovskyi, PhD, RN, at algilmore@wisc.edu
